

BAY RIDGE JOURNAL

The View from My Block

Thomas Roma Selects: A powerHouse Sunday

The powerHouse Sundays series and Hartman/Klein will present Thomas Roma Selects: an exhibition of the work of emerging photographers Jenelle Covino and Kai McBride, on Sunday, April 10 at 5:00 PM at the powerHouse Arena, 37 Main Street in DUMBO, Brooklyn.

Admission is $5.00.

Brooklyn native Thomas Roma is a documentary photographer who has worked almost exclusively in the borough since 1974. He is a professor at the Columbia University School for the Arts, where he directs the Photography Department -- which he founded.

Roma has received two Guggenheim Fellowships and has been featured in one-person shows at the Museum of Modern Art and the International Center of Photography in New York.

He has chosen the work of exciting young photographers Jenelle Covino, from East Long Island, who documents the city's coastal areas; and Kai McBride, a Hawaiian who is working on a book of black and white photos of Tampa.